The Riverside Athletic Club and the

and after a well-played and exciting ex-

Although the Riversides were at their best and gave a faultless exhibition of ball playing, they did not deserve the game. In the second inning the visiting team was at the mercy of Umpire Talbert, whose many rank decisions gave their opponents a total of four scores and robbed the Rockville boys of the game. They did not become discouraged, however, as the game was yet young,

They continued to play brilliantly, and during the remaining seven innings they allowed but one of the Riverside people to cross the plate. It was too late, however, as the damage had already been done, and Umpire Talbert's work in the early portion of the game had given the Riversides the victory. Joe Bernard twirled the sphere very effectively for the locals, and he was excellently supported by Chamberlin. The Rockville nine nevertheless managed to get seven hits, and those seven would have been enough for them to win if every decision had been justly rendered.

Nicholson, who occupied the box for the other side, proved to be quite a mystery and held his opponents down to the excellent work of "Doc" Klein

Games To-day Washingtonat Philadelphia New York at Boston, Ball Jore at Brooklyn, Cleveland at Pittsburg, Chicago at St. Louis.

(Special to The Times.) Philadelphia, Sept. 19.-That uncertainty which hovers about the national game was nost impressively demonstrated at Philadelphia Park this afternoon, and during the demonstration the spectators, of whom there were a scant 4,000, went through every emotion from utter self-complacency to the verge of convulsions.

English cricketers were among the specta tors, and before the game began Capt. Mitchell tried his hand at the bat, but could not connect with Jack Taylor's speedy curves. The game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

Manager Schmelz, of Washington, cluded to give his Frederick, Md., find another chance against the Phillies, and in that much we are under a deep sense of bligation to the genial Gustavus.

Molesworth-that's the Frederick City boy's name-operated just one inning, and to his reperosity in the matter of issuing passes to first the Phillies owe their victory. He gave two bases on balls, hit one batsman and was touched up for four singles, a combination which yielded the Phones six runs and made the game look like a lead pipe cinch. KEPT-THEM GUESSING.

This was more than Manager Schmelz could stand, and he promptly yanked out Molesworth in the second and substituted Boyd. The latter put a stop to the run getting and kept the Quakers guessing ut the eighth, when they won out by one of the most sensational finishes of the sea-

Arthur Irwin from the baseball bargain for four innings be had the Senators shootducks, not a bit was made off him until the fifth, when he was touched up for a triple and a single, which with a base on balls, and a foolish throw to second by Buckley, gave the Senators a pair of runs. In the sixth he went into theair, and gave wo bases on balls, and was touched up for four singles, all of which netted the Senators five runs and the lead. Only one hit was charged against him in the last two nnings. The Phillies made but three hits off Boyd from the second until the seventh inning nclusive, and he got rid of the first two nen in the eighth. Then Delchanty bunted, Cross singled to right and Thompson put defeat was turned into victory.

IT WAS A DULL GAME. Though the fielding was unusually clean, the game itself was a dull one from a spectacular standpoint.

With the exception of Selbach's great running catch of White's fly in the eighth there was not a chance offered that should not have been handled by the average park 'sparrow."

Madison played second for the Phillies, and he acquitted himself creditably, but no accurate time on his ability could be obtained from the few chances that came his way. Jack Crooks was kept busy, and handled everything that came his way in

There was much joy in the camp over the outcome of the Phillies' first inning. Turner drew a base on balls, as a pipe opener, and went around to third on elchanty's single, scoring on Cross' base

Delehanty scoring on the play. Sullivan was hit by a pitched ball, and Buckley walked to first, filling the bases. Then young Mr. Madison got into the merry push with a single to right, and cross and Thompson counted. Boyle filed o Brown and Buckley scored on the out. Madison went to second on the throw in and scored on White's single. Turner closed the inning with a foul to McGuire.

Molesworth was then retired, Boyd taking his place. As things developed it was well for the Phillies that Boyd was not elected to start the game. If he had there would have been another chalk in that "lost" column.

WITH A RUSH. The Senators opened their run and hit accounts in the fifth. Selbach led off with a rattling triple to left and scored on Cartwright's out. Crooks was sent to first on balls, and Demont sent one at Madison, which was entirely too warm for ordinary Crooks stole third subsequently, Demont started for second and Buckley threw to Madison without getting his man out and Crooks came in. Boyd and Brown struck

Turner was thrown out by Demont, and the spectators began to move out. Delahanty aroused some enthusiasm by bunting safely, and then Kid Cross increased it by pushing out a solid single to right. This brought up Thompson, who was cheered to the echo. Sam was due and he got there.

In a fit of temporary insanity Boyd sent a slow one over the plate. There was a collision, and but for the Methodist Home that hall would be rolling yet. As the three runners crossed the plate there was some noise unloosened, which was increased as the Senators went out in order in their half of the eighth, at the conclusion of which game was called.

TALENT HAVE A HARD DAY

Out of the six events they managed to did not cash very heavily, as one of them was the other was not very heavily played.

The only person to have a really good time outside of the bookmakers was Jockey Parson. It was surely his day, as be rode four straight winners right off the reel and landed his other two mounts second and third, respectively. Good boys are very scarce at the outlaw tracks, and when one of them rides four winners in one day he is entitled to rank among the first flight. GOING WAS STICKY

The weather was good the greater part of he afternoon, but while the horses were at the post in the second race a heavy thunder shower passed over the track and left the course somewhat sticky.

Imp. Nora was thought to have the first race cinched, and the books closed her at 7 to 10. Tartar was the good thing and got all of the money. He was backed down from 15 to 6 to 1, at which price he closed. Aleppo ran second, with Pathway shot, Tedd Gegg opening up a big gap and running ail the way from Avon, who was a 9 to 10 first choice.

On his race at St. Asaph Monday Vent 'doped" the best of the lot in the third race and was made a 1 to 2 chance. He deluded the talent into the idea that they were able to pick a winner, by going to the front on the back stretch and winning omewhat handily from O'Hearn, with Juliet third.

LED TO THE FAR TURN. Ponce de Leon had the call in the next race, closing at 7 to 10. He flattered his backers by leading to the far turn. The cond choice, Brooklyn, caught him there and getting in front steadily drew away and won in a gallop.

Senora has gone back badly and the smart people played Forest to beat her. He did it in the easiest kind of fashion, winning polled to a walk by three lengths. The favorite was not even secoond. Jessie Taral taking that position from her by an open The closing event was a good betting race.

Foundling, Traitor, and Lumberman all receiving substantial support. Johnny essayed the part of pace maker and led to the turn out of the back stretch, where Foundling and Traitor passed him. The former won handily at the end by a length and a half from Traitor, with Johnny third.

FISH COMMISSION

Boats and Machinery at Hatching Stations Said to Be in Bad Shape.

Putting Things in Shape for the

New Commissioner-Use of the Steam Yacht Petrel.

The Fish Commission boats and some of he machinery of the hatching stations are reported in a bad condition, and a beginning seems to have been made for putting things in shape for the new commissioner, whether it be Mr. May, of Nebraska, or Capt. Collins, of Laurel. "The steam yacht Petrei, Capt. J. A. Posey, sailed yesterday for Baltimore, to receive annual repairs," said a gentleman who is well acquainted in the commission. "It is supposed that she is to be returned to the Potomac, but just what excuse there is for maintaining this craft here has never been fully understood. The service rendered by her has amounted to little. In fact, she has not done sixty days' work on the stand batcheries in the last six years. "Besides Capt. Posey, her crew consists of C. Joseph Smith, first mate; P. H.

Nelligan, engineer, and Edward Flagg. jr., fireman. 'The expense of maintaining the Petrel in 1892, as stated in Mis. Doc. No. 10, House of Representatives, Fifty-second Congress, second session, page 6, was as follows: "Compensation of employes, $2,283.95; travel, $11.80; repairs, $90.09; equipment, $82.09; fuel, $120.06; incidentials, $18.35; total, $2,606.34.

"At this annual rate, together with her first cost of $4,000, the Petrel has been outlay being about $20,000

"In 1889 the nire of the Alexandria tug 'Spray,' Capt. A. B. Davis, to take the place of the laugen Blue Wing, that year appropriated for transporting higher Fish Commission officers and scientists to and from the Fort Washington hatching station was more than $700; and the season for shad bakes was only of five weeks' duration. Then the Petrel was bought, and no more bills for boat hire had to be passed up to the Treasury for payment, where disagreeable questions are sometimes asked.

'In the report of the investigation of the Fish Commission, Senate Mis. Doc. No. 77, it is stated by Past Assistant Engineer W R Bayley, U. S. N., that he was instructed, in March, 1889, to take immediate steps toward procuring a suitable steam-launch to be used for the spring shadhatching work on the Delaware river, and later in the summer to be used on Long Island Sound in the prosecution, in connec-tion with the United States Coast Survey, of the investigations of the ravages of the star-fish on the oyster beds in those wa-

"This beat, the Petrel, was employed on the Delaware but one teason and since that time, including 1895, outside the period of broiled shad, she has been for loan to the District Commissioners to relieve the Joe Blackburn or to the Virginia State Fish Commission. "When the Petrel returns from Baltimore with new copper on her hull she will be in good plight for the prospective Fish Commissioner, but th eleginning of the shad bake season is far off. While the Petrel is thus laid up for repair she is in fine order except for slight defects inher copper bottom; but the other steam launches used on the Potomac and Susquehanna river shad hatching are practically wrecks.

"It is also said that the pumping plants at the Bryan Point station and Battery Island station at Havre de-Grace and at the Monument lot fish ponds are in deplorable condition, all the steam boilers being operated with a minimum pressure to avbreaking down at a critical moment. While money spending in various ways has continued the buying and hatching of shad eggs has been cut short every year from alleged shortage of funds."
